TUNDRA OIL & GAS DONATES $100,000 TO SUPPORT RURAL COMMUNITIES IN SOUTHWESTERN MANITOBA

Winnipeg, December 22, 2016 – Tundra Oil & Gas recognizes that operating within various communities is an opportunity as well as a responsibility and is committed to achieving a balance of social and environmental sustainability. Tundra today announced donations totaling $100,000 in 2016 to support various community projects in southwestern Manitoba.

“We are active in many rural areas and we are proud to support projects that enhance the quality of life in many smaller communities,” said Ken Neufeld, President and CEO, Tundra Oil & Gas. “It is a privilege to work with various local organizations and groups within a partnership arrangement.”

Through the Richardson Foundation, the giving arm of James Richardson & Sons, Limited and affiliated companies, each year Tundra contributes to support many different community projects and organizations in southwestern Manitoba and southeastern Saskatchewan.

If you know of a community project that requires funding, please visit our website to learn more about the Foundation mandate and how to submit a proposal.

Tundra Oil & Gas is a wholly-owned business of Winnipeg-based James Richardson & Sons, Limited. Tundra commenced operations in January 1980 and currently produces close to 25,000 barrels of light crude oil per day from oil fields in southwest Manitoba. Tundra’s core properties are located within the Williston Basin in southwestern Manitoba and southeastern Saskatchewan.
